Emotional Iridology & Iridology

Emotional Iridology

Alicia started teaching Emotional Iridology a number of years ago; she found that after looking at thousands of eyes each system spoke its own language. Within that language, each organ, gland, and all the cells had a language of their own. And each time a person came to her with an illness Alicia discovered the E-motion or energy in motion behind the illness was just as important as the physical illness itself. Many times when the E-motion itself was addressed, healing occurred.

E-Motions... “Energy – In – Motion”

External events occur to everyone! However, each of us using the 5 senses experience the same event and it will affect us differently, simply because of the way in which we have built a belief structure for ourselves through out life. So, something that may be terrible to me, seems unimportant to another, but can still affect them subconsciously or on a cellular level.

What is Iridology?

Iridology is the study of the Iris of the eye as they relate to genetic strengths and deficiencies within the body. This tool can be used to analyze the health of the person and the level in which they need to work to bring about harmony and balance.

A trained Iridologist interprets your iris patterns and shares this information with you so you can understand yourself and what is needed to improve your health.

BENEFITS OF IRIDOLOGY

- ✦ Reveal potential future health risks.
- ✦ Finding strengths and weaknesses that are inherited
- ✦ Analyze health problems so corrective measures can be taken . Learn a natural health program that is right for you
- ✦ Understanding the road to optimal health and well being
- ✦ Finding how your emotional nature can influence your health
